the publication, in altogether a very interesting and, I think, a very valuable way, to draw the attention and sympathy of our readers.

From the "Friend of India," June 1, 1871.

We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of the numbers for the current year of Koter and Quater, a most desirable and interesting publication, edited by B. Donny, whose "Draughts Ports of India and Japan" are so well known. From namely attached to the "Notes" we can assume the contributors include some of the best Chinese scholars in the East. Interest is not confined to China, and if the list of names be taken at all, it is clear they have directed their attention towards the subjects of Buddhism and its literature generally to all who are interested in the oldest antiquities. It deserves to be known in India.

(from the "London Examiner," May 13, 1868.)

This really useful volume ("Treaty of China and Japan") is intended as a guide for travellers and residents in China and Japan, and is a book of reference for all generally. It contains an account, historical and literary, of the principal ports of these countries, together with Peking, Yedo, Hongkong, and Moscow have been carefully compiled and edited by Mr N. E.
